GLOCAL UNIVERSE FUND

FACTSHEET

MARCH 2024

Macroeconomic Update

March was a strong month for all components of the fund's portfolio. While the longer term of the UST yield curve added 5-10 bp, our exposure to fixed income via shorter duration instruments resulted in notable outperformance of the component. With a stronger than anticipated economy and more persistent inflation we intend to stick to this strategy in the near future.

Growth stocks once again outperformed the broad market, which led to more gains with the Nasdaq exposure.

Bitcoin and Gold reaching all-time highs also strongly contributed to the fund's monthly performance.

The data, views and forecasts in this document is for information purposes only and shall not be regarded as an offer, solicitation or recommendation for an investment. Past performance is no guarantee of future results. All investments involve risks including the risk of possible loss of principal. The market value of a Fund's portfolio may decline as a result of a number of factors, including adverse economic and market conditions, prospects of securities in the portfolio, changing interest rates, and real or perceived adverse competitive industry conditions. The Fund invests in securities and other investments that may be illiquid, which hold the risk that the securities will not be able to be sold at the time desired by the Fund. The Armenian securities markets have substantially less trading volume than the securities markets of OECD countries. Additionally, the capitalization of the Armenian securities markets is highly concentrated. This combination of lower volume and greater concentration in the Armenian securities markets may create a risk of greater price volatility than in the securities markets of developed economies. The views and forecasts contained herein are those of the GLOCAL team based on information that they believe to be reliable. These opinions may change over time.
